"Self-led" Nature Study

An "Environmental Education" pack has been produced by Braintree District Council containing games, practical tasks and activities in order to encourage individuals and groups to utilise open spaces in the District such as Silver End Memorial Gardens and to educate children about the environment and wildlife where they live. There are activities for all ages, many linking with the National Curriculum from mini-beast hunting and tree identification for primary schools to habitat surveying for young adults

This pack is available to download from
